FIVE HUNDRED YANKS IN GREAT PERIL

IN TSINAN AND ANWHEI AREAS AND ARE ENTIRELY ISOLATED

President Coolidge Does Not Like American Officers To Act Under Foreign Officers or Their Direction—He Prefers For Them To Act Alone—Admiral Williams Reports That It Is Impossible For Him To Avoid Acting In Concert—Situation Very Tense—An Ultimatum To China May Be Forthcoming.

Nearly 500 Americans in the Tsinan and Anwei area of China are in imminent danger and cut off from relief, W. G. Swaney, American consul there, reported to the state department at Washington Thursday.

Of this number approximately 100 are far removed in the interior from the already inaccessible Tsinan consulate and entirely isolated.

Tsinan is several hundred miles from the coast, on the Shantung peninsula, in the immediate path of the retreating Shantung armies.

Swaney has appealed to the Chinese for troop trains, the only means of sending the Americans to safety, but reports that no trains are available. Such Americans as find their way out will have to do so by their own initiative, officials said.

The territory they occupy is north of the Yangtse river, which they cannot reach without penetrating hostile Cantonese lines. It would be next to impossible for American or other foreign forces to reach them, it was stated.

The situation has become "very tense" at Tsinan, Swaney said.

"I anticipate grave consequences thru looting and lawlessness in the event of a battle and the defeat of the Shantung forces," he declared. "The situation is characterized by extreme nervousness, both among the Chinese and the foreigners."

Twenty Americans in the interior from Foochow have refused to leave American Consul Ernest Price reported.

"In the event of an emergency they could not be evacuated," he declared.

Foreign demonstrations have been started at Chungking, 1,200 miles up the Yangtse river. The American consul and vice consul there have taken up their headquarters aboard the U. S. S. Monocacy, a small river gunboat. There originally were 260 Americans in this district, but it is believed the majority of them already have been evacuated.

The American consul at Swatow, on the south coast, reports that all of the Americans, with the exception of six Catholic priests, have left the interior and concentrated there, where they are ready to board an American warship in case of emergency.

Admiral Clarence S. Williams, commander-in-chief of American naval forces in China and in supreme command of land and naval operations, sent a "highly important" radio dispatch to the state department, thru the navy. It was the first of his dispatches in several days that has not been made public.

It is believed to have stated that the situation thruout China rapidly is becoming worse and that he wishes instructions on how far he shall go in cooperating with other foreign forces mobilized there to protect their Nationals.

President Coolidge and his cabinet are expected to decide this important question tomorrow morning. It is said to be one of the most difficult faced in the present crisis, as it will determine the Far Eastern policy for years.

The president repeatedly has declared that he does not wish to have Americans act under foreign officers or direction in China and that the United States will seek separate diplomatic agreements with the Chinese government which emerges from the present revolution.

However, Admiral Williams has reported that it has been impossible for him to avoid acting in concert with other foreigners in military measures for protection. He is the senior officer of the powers having forces there and has been looked to for guidance. It has been at his consultation and advice that protective measures and distribution of warships have been taken.

The Japanese already have delivered an ultimatum to the Chinese and the British are about to do so. In many quarters it is believed that unless the United States adopts a similar course the foreign powers will be weakened and all foreigners in China will suffer.

Officials admitted that a careful study of the Nanking incident is being made to place the responsibility. If this inquiry justifies the statements of Americans at Nanking that the Cantonese officials were responsible, it would justify an ultimatum, it was stated.

SCOTT WORKMAN PAYS PENALTY KILLED WIFE

Scott Workman, 40 years old, Batavia, Ohio, victim of whiskey, paid with his life Thursday night for the murder of his wife, Nora. Nine children are left parentless.

Workman, a few hours after eating the final chicken dinner that he had requested, walked into the death chamber at Ohio penitentiary, seated himself in the electric chair, remarked: "It's a pretty handy thing, isn't it?" and in four minutes—at 8:35 o'clock—was dead.

Workman shot and killed his wife last August when in a drunken frenzy and for several hours after the murder barricaded himself in his home and defied arrest.

Whisky in his possession at the time of the murder was taken into the home with him when he sought to defy arrest. He continued to consume the whisky and finally became unconscious. His arrest followed.

At the time of the murder, Workman accused his wife of having been familiar with another man, but later declared their married life had been happy, except for "those little spats that married folks have."

In his cell, the condemned man talked cheerfully with newspaper men and when they departed gave them a carefully written statement that he had promised several days ago in event Governor A. V. Donahey refused to interfere with the verdict reached by a Clermont county jury.

COAL STRIKE IS GENERAL THRUOUT OHIO

While the Order is in Effect Many Miners Will Seek Other Work.

Columbus.—The giant coal industry of Ohio slumbered today, drugged by another periodical strike.

The sleep will be deep and long, observers believed.

The industry from which 45,000 Ohio miners have dug a livelihood for their families became paralyzed when the last union wroked laid down his tools.

Every large union coal mine in the state today was affected by the anaesthetic according to reports to the United States Press. A few strip mines or small workings continued in operation but they were negligible.

The shut down became effective despite last minute efforts to keep the industry functioning. The coal operators, who face various losses made fresh overtures to the miners for a conference to be held April 7.

As a condition of the meeting the operators demanded that a "competitive wage" be negotiated making it possible for them to compete with the non-union fields in West Virginia and Kentucky.

Union mine leaders who have held out for a renewal of the Jacksonville agreement or a daily wage no less than $7.50 a day had made no formal reply to this peace move as the million dollar industry became lethargic.

Lee Hall, district president of the union as expected in Columbus Friday and some cognizance of the proposal may be taken.

Meanwhile thruout the Hocking Valley along the Ohio river in the fields surrounding Cambridge and in other sections of Ohio an army of men was idle today.

For the majority it was a new experience. Ohio coal mines have operated spasmodically since the signing of the Jacksonville agreement three years ago. Thruout this period there has been little work for those who literally take their living from the earth.

Many union men, impatient with unsteady employment have drifted to other walks. With the strike in effect many others probably will sift to other labors.

But at New Philadelphia, Massillon, East Liverpool and at other spots over the state many coal miners continued their work, either as a result of agreements between the operators and miners on a tentative basis of because of non-union conditions.

Two secret service men of the White House staff now are in the west looking over the places to which the president has been invited and they carry orders to find a place in the LaFollette stronghold if it meets the necessary requirements.

Mr. Coolidge decided to select Wisconsin because it will afford him 24 hour transportation to Washington and will give him the fishing he desires on his annual vacation trips.

Eight estates have been offered to the president in the lake state.

First Two Prisoners To Ohio Penitentiary.

From the records of the Ohio Penitentiary it is discovered that Pickaway County has the distinction of sending the first two prisoners to the institution, John and David Evans, who were convicted of assault and battery with intent to commit murder and robbery upon one Levi Warner, and were sentenced to serve five years each, the first lunar month in each year in solitary confinement and the balance of the year at hard labor during their incarceration.

The sentence was passed in the October term of Pickaway County Common Pleas Court October 7th, 1915. The sentence was signed by Judges John Thompson, William Seymour and Thomas Barr. James Denny was Clerk of Courts and Samuel Lybrand, Sheriff. The prisoners were committed to the pen by Sheriff Lybrand on the 9th of October, 1915. The commitment papers issued from the Clerk's office showed that the cost of prosecution was $95.62. The cost of transporting the prisoners to the pen was $32.25.

Improved Uniform International Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D.D., Dean, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(© 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for April 3 PETER BECOMES A DISCIPLE OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:14-18; 29-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come ye after Me and I will make you to become fishers of men.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Follows Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Great Decision.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making the Great Decision.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Answering Christ's Call.

I. Jesus Preaching in Galilee (vv. 14, 15).

The reason for Christ changing from Judea to Galilee was the growing opposition to Him. He accepted the fate of John, the Baptist, as foreshadowing His own death. The rejection of the forerunner meant the rejection of Him whose advent he heralded.

1. What He preached (v. 14).
The gospel of the kingdom of God which meant the good news of the near approach of the kingdom of God when the rule of God as predicted by the prophets would be realized.

2. How He preached it (v. 15).
(1) "The time is fulfilled and the kingdom of God is at hand."
This meant that the time had now come for the appearance of the Messiah and the establishment of His kingdom.

(2) "Repent."
This meant that the people should turn around, change their minds and attitude toward Christ and accept Him as their King. The message of repentance is one which needs to be sounded out today.

(3) "Believe the gospel." Then, as now, men needed to believe the gospel of Christ.

II. Jesus Called Peter and Andrew to Become Fishers of Men. Jesus called this pair of brothers for service in His kingdom. It is usually best to perform the Lord's service in pairs. This has a threefold value. It makes testimony effective; it provides fellowship on the part of workers and protection of the witnesses. It is to be noted that these men had previously been called to be disciples of Christ (John 1:36-42). They are now called to service. Observe:

1. From what they were called (v. 16).
They were called from positions of definite service. They were fishers. God always chooses His servants from the ranks of the employed.

2. To what they were called (v. 17).
To be "fishers of men." They no doubt had been successful fishers. The qualities which made them good fishermen, namely, patience, bravery to face the storm and darkness of the night, and perseverance, which led them to toil all night though no fish were caught, would make them good fishers of men.

3. Their obedience (v. 18).
"Straightway they forsook their nets and followed Him."
To obey meant sacrifice, painful separation, the giving up of all business interests and leaving father behind. Regardless of the cost, they yielded prompt obedience.

III. Jesus Entering Simon Peter's House (vv. 29-31)

Soon after the call of Peter and Andrew, Jesus called James and John, after which they entered the synagogue at Capernaum, where He cast out an evil spirit. This miracle caused His fame to be spread abroad.

1. A loved one ill (v. 30).
When Jesus entered this home He found Peter's mother-in-law with a burning fever. We know that among the closest followers of Jesus there are suffering ones and anxious and burdened hearts. To all such Jesus comes with loving sympathy and power to help.

2. "They tell Him of her" (v. 31).
This was the proper thing to do. We should bring to the attention of Jesus those of our families who have need of bodily or spiritual healing.

3. He healed her (v. 31).
"He came and took her by the hand and lifted her up." This act showed the nearness, sympathetic tenderness and power of Jesus. At His touch the fever departed and strength was imparted to her body.

4. "She ministered unto them" (v. 31).

This act shows:
(1) That the cure was instantaneous and complete. When Jesus heals there is no halfway business.
(2) Gratitude on the part of the one healed. She thus expressed her appreciation of what Jesus had done. All those who have experienced the healing power of Jesus will express their gratitude in loving service to the Lord and His disciples.

God's Indulgence

God is not over-indulgent. He is too loving for that. Because He loves us, and plans for our growth, He cannot let our faults go without correction. His justice stands side by side with His mercy, and cannot be evaded or left out of account.—Southern Methodist.

Finding Strength

Where shall we find strength for practical separation to God, except in God Himself.—Echoes.

A charming woman may intoxicate a man before marriage and drive him to drink after.

"I'll tell the world" is the stock phrase of the fellow who wouldn't dare tell his next door neighbor.

Daughter of the Beachcomber

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)

JIM BRISTOL, landing at his first South Sea Island, looked about him with interest. Considerable reading on the tropical Pacific had prepared him for the palm-fringed crescent of beach, the clustered native huts, the green rise of hills in the background.

But it seemed a bit of singularly good fortune that, over in one corner of the dock on a pile of stained rope, there should be sitting a lean old man with tangled beard, sunken eyes, and clothing so patched and fragmentary that it resembled the garments of a scarecrow.

"A beachcomber, as I live!" murmured Jim, and thrust his hand into his pocket. It would be worth a franc or two to draw the old man out, and Jim, who was running away from a rich girl and her money, was off on this voyage for all there was in it in the way of diversion.

In the following days he learned a great deal about the fellow. How he had come there some twenty years ago with a thin and shabby child who, by the way, had now grown into the loveliest thing beneath the Southern Cross. How he had taken a two-room shack up the beach and, little by little, had sunk to his present unkempt state, content to guide tourists about the island, fish with them in his dugout, or coolly accept their generous tips in return for the tales he told them. How occasional packages came for him on the steamers which evidently contained the simple clothes of Rosemary, as well as other things which remained secret.

"He keeps the girl strict enough," admitted French Lou, proprietress of the ramshackle, hibiscus-draped hotel where Jim was staying. "He don't let her so much as meet the steamers, and goodness knows that's the only diversion in this off-the-map hole.
What's going to become of her when the old man's gone?" French Lou shrugged her fat shoulders.

It was inevitable that sooner or later Jim should meet Rosemary and perhaps equally inevitable, considering her lovely dusky eyes and hair like burnished gold, that he should fall in love with her. Her old derelict parent even took a fancy to Jim and asked him down to the shack which he found cleaner and more habitable than he would have supposed.

They sat together on the yellow sands one evening—Jim and the beachcomber's daughter—while a golden globe of moon climbed up a velvet sky out of a velvet ocean.

Rosemary had been a continual surprise to Jim. She was not the ignorant girl one would have thought.

He had decided to ask her to marry him, but first he wanted to rid his soul of confession.

"I came near being an awful mucker back home," he began abruptly. "There was a girl and—well, she sort of took a shine to me and her old man had oodles of money. I made up my mind to marry her. I was actually on the way to her home to propose when, like a flash, it came over me what I was about to do. To marry without love. I beat it then and there, and swore I'd never look at another girl with a cent of money. Even then I didn't realize what a cad I'd been, because then I didn't know what real love could be. But now, oh, Rosemary, darling, you have shown me what love is. If you will be my wife—"

He slipped an arm about her shoulders, but Rosemary drew away, burying her face in her hands. "Oh, I can't!" she half moaned.

"But, sweetheart—" Jim was puzzled. He had felt so sure that she responded to his love.

"Never!" she cried. "Me? The beachcomber's daughter?" she gave a queer little laugh.

"Then," said Jim firmly, "if you will not have me, I shall go back and marry the girl I told you about."

"But—but you said you would never marry a girl who was rich—" stammered Rosemary.

"Yes," agreed Jim. "But I suppose that was foolish of me. If the girl I adore won't have me, I might as well marry a girl who at least pretended to like me. Nothing in the world really counts except love. Nothing."

"Not even—" the girl's voice was a bit breathless. "Not even if one's father is—a fraud? A professional beachcomber who was a failure back home and who thought by coming here and living cheaply and banking every cent he could earn by playing on the gullibility of the tourists, he could some day go home and live like a gentleman? And he's been good to me.
You don't know how he's taught me night, sending away for books—how he's gone without everything to lay aside a little more toward what he calls my dowry. I'd gladly be poor for your sake. I—yes, Jim, I love you—"

"Then," cried Jim triumphantly, and drew her into his arms, "the only girl in the world I could ever have loved is the beachcomber's daughter!"

But when, after being married in French Lou's parlor, they sailed away, they left the old man behind. "I guess," he said, "it gets into the blood.
Once a beachcomber, always a beach-comber."

And the last they saw of him, he was sitting on a pile of stained rope, and was waving a battered apology of a hat.

CELEBRATING
TWENTY-FIFTH
ANNIVERSARY

The J. C. Penney Company
Now Has 773 Stores Located in 47 States.

The J. C. Penney company is celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary this month. On April 14, 1902, in a coal mining town, named Kemmerer, Wyoming, J. C. Penney started a general store and his first year's business amounted to $30,000. Today the Penney company has 773 branches, located in 47 states and did a business last year of $115,000,000. The quota this year has been placed at $150-000,000. This estimate is not large when compared with what the firm has done in the past. Its growth has been phenomenal for a chain store and is attributed to the fact that the firm sells goods at a little less as it is a large organization and buys mer-chandises in quantities.

The local store is managed by C.
E. Brandt, M. C. Moseley is the assistant manager; Miss Mary Reid and Mrs. Nina McAbee are the clerks and Miss Katharine Millirons is bookkeeper and cashier. On Saturdays the firm has an extra force of saleswomen.

Anglers' Patron Saint

Izaak Walton was born at Stafford, England in 1593. He became a linen-draper of London, and amassed a modest fortune, retiring from business early in life in order to enjoy the society of several of the most cultured men of the time. One of his recreations was fishing, and he is remembered by his book, the "Compleat Angler." He also wrote admirable biographies.

Helium Gas

Helium is the name of a gas present in the air in minute quantities.
It is about twice as dense as hydrogen, and is slow to combine with other elements. It is present in the waters of most mineral springs.

GOV. DONAHEY

Warmly Endorses Citizens' Military Training Camps.

Columbus, March 31.—In a warmly enthusiastic endorsement of the C. M. T. C. movement, Governor Donahey here today, informed Brig. General Dwight E. Aultman, 5th Corps Area Commander that he wants all eligible young men in Ohio to attend one of the Citizens' Military Training Camps at Fort Thomas and Camp Knox, Ky., and Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

"I consider it a duty and a privilege to endorse the Citizens' Military Training Camps," he wrote. "Our country is the most prosperous and best governed in the world today; the benefits, rights and material blessings now possessed by our citizens have been created and preserved by past generations of loyal and patriotic Americans. They can only be retained in the future by a similar loyalty and patriotism on the part of our people. These qualities are cultivated in a high degree, by C. M. T. C. activities which, while preparing men for possible defense of their country, likewise improve them for peaceful pursuits."

"The discipline, physical development and education given the young manhood of our country by the Citizens' Military Training Camps can not help but raise the average efficiency and provide additional safeguards to the citizenship of the United States. I hope and believe that the response of the young men of Ohio to the call for the 1927 training camps will be prompt and complete."

Ohio youths between the ages of 17 and 24 are being enrolled in large numbers each day for the camps at Fort Thomas and Camp Knox, Ky. and Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana.

AMUSEMENTS

The launching of Clara Bow as a star and the return of Elinor Glyn to paramount is, from the public's standpoint, one of those fortunate things that occur all too rarely in motion pictures. And what was an even more fortunate stroke was the uniting of the famous flapper and the distinguished English novelist in a single film.

In the event that these statements are doubted, we strongly recommend that all doubters attend the Met theater and witness the result of this combination in the Elinor Glyn-Clarence Badger production, "IT."

For exquisite comedy and touches of heart-gripping pathos, Paramount's latest takes rank among the outstanding releases of the current season.

Miss Bow portrays a vivacious American shop girl possessed of the strange power of "IT," as explained by Elinor Glyn early in the picture. And, after learning the true definition of her theory almost any audience in the world would be inclined to agree that Clara has "IT" to the N'th degree.

BILL TO KILL

J. P. COURTS

Is Submitted—Creation of New Inferior Courts Is Provided In Senate Measure.

A bill to abolish justices of the peace and create inferior county courts was introduced in the Senate Wednesday afternoon by Senator Miles Kuhns of Dayton.

The bill, drawn by the Dayton Bar Association, would set up these courts with a judge for every 145,000 population or fraction thereof in each county. The court would take over the work now done by justices of the peace.

Senators Bender and Collier of Cleveland, objected to the introduction of the bill on the grounds that there already is a committee existing to study the effect of recent court decisions on the powers of inferior magistrates in Ohio.

Their objections were overruled, however, and the bill will be referred to this special committee for its consideration along with other measures dealing with the same subject.

King's Gift to Friend Gives France Millions

Paris.—The munificence of King Charles X to his friends is bringing a "heritage" of many millions to the President of France. Unfortunately for the President, he will have to turn this over to the government.

Eight downtown buildings and the ground under them will revert to the President April 29 this year at the expiration of a 99-year lease.

King Charles, to reward a friend, M. de Chanteraine, gave him the use of the land for 1,000 francs a year with the provision that the buildings thereon should become the property of the "crown," which happens now to be the republic of France, or should be torn down if demanded.

The government already has negotiated the sale of one site, on which stands the Hotel Regina, for 8,000,000 francs. The other lots and buildings will be sold later. In addition, the government will receive a 25 per cent tax on real estate transfers.

Oil as Locomotive Fuel

According to the Department of Commerce, the first experiments in the United States which resulted in the continued utilization of oil as a locomotive fuel were made by the Central Pacific railroad at its Sacramento (Calif.) shops in 1879, when oil brought by boat from the Atlantic coast was burned in the firebox of an eight-wheel locomotive built to burn wood, but at that time using coal.

HORNSBY IN DENIAL

Says Price On His Cardinal Stock Still $105 Share.

St. Augustine, Fla., March 30.—UP.—Rogers Hornsby, captain of the New York Giants, denied today that he would accept a compromise offer for his stock in the St. Louis Cardinals.

He reiterated that his demand was $105 a share for the 1147 shares he holds in the club he led to the world baseball championship. "I won't take a nickel less," he added. "Let the St. Louis and New York presidents thresh it out between them."

Hornsby must dispose of his stock by April 12 if he is to play with the Giants this season.

Naturally the rental on the room at the top is high.

JUST A HIRED HAND

Texas Guinan Denies Responsibility In Night Club Scandal.

New York, March 30.—(UP.)—Texas Guinan, night club hostess, went on trial today charged with contempt of court in connection with sale of liquor in the "300 Club," which was closed recently by padlock proceedings. Liquor might have been served in the club, Texas said, but she was only a "hired hand" and not responsible. Her contract with the corporation owning the club called for a straight salary of $1,000 a week to act as hostess and she owned no stock, she testified.

The charges were dismissed.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES

Tasty Tea Tidbits.

Novel suggestions for tea-time menu—perhaps an unusual, tasty tea cake, a new kind of sandwich, or a different dessert—are of course, always welcomed by the hostess wishing to surprise her tea guests and make the hour pleasant for them. However, new ideas for recipes are not known to be so numerous and easily available. Many is the time an old recipe has to be resorted to again and again.

Dainty, delicious tea cakes, such as Golden Tea Cakes or Brambles, are unusual and would help make any tea perfect. No guest could resist a golden tea cake covered with gleaming golden frosting, or a crisp bramble, a new kind of turnover. Sandwiches, of course, have always been an old standby at tea time. A new kind of fancy sandwich can be prepared by merely slicing the bread lengthwise instead of crosswise and spreading on the filler—perhaps sliced dates and chopped nuts or dates and cheese. The whole is then rolled lengthwise and cut into slices, each slice making a dainty party-sandwich, which is fluffy and different-looking from the ordinary sandwich.

Golden Tea Cakes.

2½ Cups pastry flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ cup candied grapefruit peel, ¾ cup butter or oleomargarine, 1¼ cups sugar, 8 egg yolks, ½ teaspoon lemon extract, ¾ cup milk.

Add the baking powder to the flour and sift together twice. Cut the sliced peel into small pieces and mix through the flour with finger tips.

Cream the shortening; beat in the sugar gradually, then the egg yolks which have been beaten until light colored. Beat the whole mixture two minutes. Bake in small pans in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for 25 to 30 minutes. When cool cover with golden frosting and decorate with ½ cup sliced grapefruit peel.

April Fools' day, or All-Fools day the name given to the first of April in allusion to the custom of playing practical jokes on friends or neighbors on that day, or sending them on fools' errands, is in some way or other a relic of "the good old days" centuries ago when all the known world celebrated the event with parties gay. Its origin is cloaked in mystery, but as far back as history reveals there has always been connected with it the spirit of fooling. Still, it is no practical joke with you if today finds you sorely in need of ready cash. The City loan will cheerfully hear your story and loan you the money, which you can pay back according to your ability to pay, and you won't have to go to the trouble of bothering your personal friends. There is no April Fool about the transaction—it is a simple business matter.

PARLIAMENT REVOKES NORWAY PROHIBITION

Some Restrictions, However, Are Contained In Bill Abolishing Dry Law.

Oslo, Norway, March 30.—The Lagting today passed the bill abolishing prohibition in Norway, pursuant to the vote recorded in the recent referendum. The measure has been passed by the Odelsting, the other house of the Norwegian parliament, but will have to be sent back for approval of some minor amendments. The bill provides for certain restrictions in the sale of liquor. The new regulations are expected to become effective next month.

Towns having a population of 4,000 or less will vote on the sale of liquor in 1928 and will hold referendums on the subject every six years thereafter.

Liquor, under the bill, may not be sold or served to minors and will be available to adults only from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until 11 o'clock at night. The sale of liquor will be prohibited on important holidays and the day before and the day after.

Mailing of liquor, except for medicinal purposes, will be prohibited.

STOLEN ROOSTER

Recovered By Dessel Kiger In Southern End of City.

This morning in company with Officer McCrady, Dessel Kiger found one of his roosters, stolen from his hennery in Pickaway township early Sunday morning, in the southern end of the city, and secured his property.

The rooster had been wandering around the neighborhood since Sunday.

ALL FOOLS' DAY

In nearly all parts of the earth there exists a day which corresponds to our April Fool's Day. It is a day consecrated to the playing of practical jokes on friends and neighbors, sending them on fools' errands, tricking them into doing ludicrous things.

The origin of the day of practical joking is much disputed. This rhyme, found in "Poor Robin's Almanac" for 1760, is as true today as it was then: "The first of April, some do say Is set apart for All Fools' Day; But why the people call it so Nor I, nor they themselves, do know."

Among the many stories advanced concerning the origin of the "fools' festival" is one which goes back to Noah and the Ark. The London Public Advertiser of March 13, 1769, says that the April Fools' custom "arose from the mistake of Noah sending the dove out of the ark before the water had abated, on the first day of the month among the Hebrews which answers to our first of April, and to perpetuate the memory of this deliverance it was thought proper, whoever forgot so remarkable a circumstance, to punish by sending upon some sleeveless errand similar to that ineffectual message upon which the bird was sent by the patriarch."

In Great Britain, as in France, the first of April was anciently observed as a festival. But it was not until the end of the seventeenth century that "April fooling" became a common custom. There is no doubt whatever that the English copied the custom from the French.

The custom of April-fooling has remained, and in the United States it is quite customary to play practical jokes on one's friends on this day. Children particularly are fond of the day and make of it a fun festival. "The Customs of Mankind," Lillian Eicheder.

SCIOTO TRAIL

Offers Many Beauties For the Tourists.

Spring and summer tourists who want to become familiar with their home state can get a veritable cross-section of Ohio by traveling the Scioto Trail which runs across the state from north to south.

Driving south from Columbus, the tourist follows a well-paved road leading out of the level rich farming sections of Central Ohio into the hilly scenic Ohio river valley, replete with historic interest.

South of Circleville is Pickaway Plains, famous farming lands, and the Logan Elm, just off the Scioto Trail. Here Chief Logan delivered his famous speech in 1744. Passing on into Ross county, the tourist can see from the windows of his car the mighty hills of the Mount Logan range which were the inspiration for the "Great Seal of Ohio."

At Chillicothe, the tourist can visit Camp Sherman where more than 100,000 soldiers trained during the World War and can see the recently established Veterans' Bureau Hospital and Federal Reformatory.

The Camp Sherman site is rich with historic interest, having been a concentration point for troops in the Civil War also. Chillicothe, with its picturesque old houses and a vague air of the South before the war about it, is a pleasant stop for Scioto Trail sight-seeing motorists.

From Chillicothe, the tourist passes on into the more rugged section of the state. Points of interest to the south of Chillicothe are the famous "Hermit's Cave," Indian mounds near Portsmouth, and Portsmouth itself.

Traveling northward from Columbus, the tourist on the Scioto Trail with Sandusky as a destination, passes the home of Ruth-erford B. Hayes, 19th president of the United States, the site of Ohio Wesleyan University and through Marion where Warren G. Harding resided.

A trip on the Scioto Trail unfolds a panorama to the tourists which gives an excellent idea of the diversity of scenery and agricultural and commercial life of the state.

MACMILLEN TO PLAY FOR VETS

At his own request, Francis Macmillen, world famous violinist, will play a special hour concert for the patients at the U. S. Veterans' Bureau hospital at Camp Sherman on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Macmillen is a World War veteran.

Some of the patients at the hospital may be former buddies of Lieut. Macmillen or may have heard him play overseas in some of the camps and hospitals. Lieutenant Macmillen served two years with the A. E. F. in the role of interpreter. His services to his country won him a citation from General Pershing for "conspicuous and meritorious service."

The hospital concert will be between the hours of 1 and 2 p. m. on Thursday and will be exclusively for the hospital patients.—Chillicothe News-Advertiser.

Ranch Appellations

The name "Lazy," so often affixed to western ranches, refers to the brand used on its animals by the ranch. When letters of the alphabet are used they are often varied by their position. When tilted at an angle of 45 degrees they are said to be "tumbling"; when lying flat on their back or face, "lazy."

Spread of Orange Culture

—PROCLAMATION—

At the hearing before the Interstate Commerce commission relative to the Standard time zone investigation defining limits of United States Standard Eastern and Central time zones, decided January 11, 1927, it appeared that the inclusion within the Eastern time zone of the petitioning municipalities that territory on and east of the Baltimore and Ohio from Toledo to Cincinnati, would remove many inconveniences in commerce, and so ordered that the findings of the said Interstate Commerce commission be carried into operation effective at 2 o'clock ante-meridian Sunday, April 3, 1927.

Therefore, be it proclaimed, That the Standard time thruout the city of Circleville, Ohio, should be known as Eastern Standard time; that every clock or timepiece maintained at the city's expense or upon or in any public building belonging to said city of Circleville, Ohio, shall be set and run according to said standard of time by the person or persons in charge thereof, effective as in order of Interstate commerce commission, which is 2 o'clock A. M. Sunday, April 3, 1927.

Tone in Spadeul

If the stars being studied by the astro-physicists could be weighed actually, instead of by mathematical computation, it would be found that a spadeul would weigh a ton. The stars are accordingly much denser than the earth. The earth is said to be only about five and a half times as heavy as water.

Face the Wind

Some men face the wind, some turn their backs to it. The former overcome obstacles and accomplish something in life. The latter merely drift, creating nothing, rendering no service and are frequently a burden on their fellows. Are you facing the wind?—Grit.
